A partnership built on trust

Equiom

E-GAMING

We cannot build our own future without helping others to build theirs.

As a highly successful business, e-Gaming transcends national boundaries. Using the internet as its oyster, this flourishing sector presents fascinating opportunities in a truly global market.

We relish the challenge of e-Gaming and understand its potential. Our highly experienced team hold extensive technical expertise, enabling them to guide you towards the most advantageous company structure and gain the necessary licensing requirements so that you can operate effectively and efficiently. We can then help you manage your business in the most tax-efficient way.

New locations, new opportunities

Because our headquarters are in the Isle of Man, Equiom has been part of the jurisdiction's phenomenal e-Commerce success and we have worked closely with the government to facilitate e-Gaming. With its reputation for good regulation, tax-efficiency, a superb telecommunications infrastructure and attractive economic incentives, the location is home to many growing e-Gaming businesses.

We advise many of them. Our horizons, though, stretch far beyond the Isle of Man. We are happy to support and advise e-Gaming clients around the world, helping them choose the jurisdiction that offers them the most benefits. So whilst we specialise in Isle of Man licensing, our services also include consulting advice when required by clients for other jurisdictions.

We provide

- effective, prompt management of your licence application
- tax-efficient, compliant corporate structures
- critical insight into regulatory and legal requirements
- key personnel
- an experienced, proactive advisory and support team
- specialist input into business planning
- access to specialist tax and VAT advisers
- introductions to bankers, payment solution providers, hosting and telecoms companies
- essential management and financial reporting

Expertise

We use our expertise to offer you coordination and guidance, matching complementary skills to mutual benefit, and providing that much needed regulatory insight and support. Whether you are a start up or more mature business, you can rely on our integrity, professionalism and specialist expertise.

Business insight

We have developed a superb track record through the successful management of a number of complex licence applications for operators and software providers. Many clients also appreciate our insight into business planning, an essential component of each application.
